

Danfoss Power solution as vikings

June 22nd 2016

Danfoss Power solutions had decided to find out how the vikings lived in Denmark. The best possibility was to visit the viking crew Sebbe Als.

Rowing a viking boat is not easy!

We met at the harbour in Augustenborg at 17.30 and after an introduction to the ship and how to row, the guests were equipped with lifevests and entered the ship. The vikingship was pushed out from the bridge and everybody began rowing. Even though the skipper was counting, the rowing was not so fluent in the beginning, but after a short while it went much smoother.

We arrived at the naust where we had nice cold beer - which was very popular after the heavy rowing. Then the guests found a seat and the dinner was ready - wild pork from grill and chicken. The meal was good - nearly all was eaten and no complaints!

Wild pork, chicken and other nice things

After dinner the guests were sent out on the lawn and there they had to do their almost in throwing a stone with the goal to hit a pole. This gave a good exercise and a good laugh. In the meanwhile the coffee was cooked and served outside as the weather was excellent!

Skibslaget Sebbe Als Augustenborg

The chairman gave an lecture in ancient ships and our history. But all things must come to an end and we sailed the ship back to the harbour and said good bye to our guests who now knows a lot more about the vikings in Denmark. From the crew we can say that we enjoyed the visit - nice people with good humor. Thank you from the crew!

Regards from the old vikings, Steen Weile

The young people wer

Rope pulling

A lecture in viking maner